Discussion
Welcomed group members
Andrew Lambeth, Coordinator - Home Visiting, St Jude's CVS
Community Visitor Scheme - Southern Metro Area
The Community Visitors Scheme (CVS) is Commonwealth-funded and began in 1992. CVS services in the Brighton/Hove/Warradale/Seacliff areas are auspiced through St Jude's Anglican Church in Brighton. St Jude's is one of several CVS hubs that form a consortium under the lead of Lutheran Care, which provides a range of supportive services for consortium members as well as acting as the channel for funding from the Commonwealth DHS. Since July 2021 St Jude's has been providing CVS services to older people who reside in their own homes or in retirement villages, rather than in residential aged care. There is no fee to the consumer.
St Jude's visits to older people are undertaken by volunteers, many of whom have long experience as visitors to residential aged care facilities. All volunteers are fully vaccinated for Covid and influenza and have undergone police checks. CVS is available at no cost to eligible older people living in the St

Jude's catchment area, which runs from Anzac Highway in the north to Majors Road in the south and eastward to South Road. The only requirement for receipt of a service is that the older person is receiving at least a Level 1 Commonwealth Home Support Package.

CVS tries to market the program as 'Friends to older people', since this more accurately describes what they aim to do. Volunteers are asked to commit to a minimum of fortnightly visits (although weekly is common) for a period of twelve months.

In addition, for elderly couples living in their own homes CVS offers benefits to both people in the relationship, since the volunteer contact acts as a form of respite for each, particularly if the time is spent outside the home, for example walking in a park or along the coast or relaxing at a coffee shop.
